adjacent identical links: 222

ALERT: One or more anchor tags were found adjacent to one another with the same link text and destination. This can be confusing to screen reader users. Consider removing redundant links or if possible, combine the links into a single anchor tag enclosing both elements.

⋮ When combining links that include an image tag the image alt attribute should be set to empty i.e... alt="". WCAG 2.1 \(Level AA\) - 2.4.4

ambiguous anchor tag: 281

ALERT: A link was encountered with ambiguous link text. Links should make sense out of context. Using a URL as link text or phrases such as "click here", "more", "click for details" are ambiguous when read out of context. Ensure this link is included in a paragraph, list or table cell with preceding text that describes its purpose or is in a table cell with a header that explains the purpose of the link. If a link encloses an image the image alt text should include the purpose of the link. To increase accessibility use existing words or text in your page as the link rather than the ambiguous phrase. (e.g. Rather than click here to view the annual report, use View the annual report.)

background image: 139

ALERT: Image is being added using the CSS background-image property. The CSS background-image property provides a way to include images in the document without any reference in the HTML code. The CSS background-image property is intended for decorative purposes only and does not provide a means to associate alternative text. Using background images also makes it possible for color contrast failures to go un-noticed. Verify that the affected images do not include any textual content and that there is enough contrast between the color of the image and any text that is displayed over the background image. color contrast failure: 190

WARNING: An element was found to not have a contrast ratio of at least 4.5:1 between the foreground and background colors. Verify that both foreground and background colors are specified at some level by stylesheets or through inheritance rules and that the contrast ratio is at least 4.5:1. It is not necessary that the foreground and background colors both be defined on the same CSS rule. Use the WAVE by WebAim color contrast checker for greater accuracy. incorrect whitespace: 1

WARNING: An element was found to be using extra white space to create padding or other visual formatting. The use of white space between words for visual formatting is not a failure, since it does not change the interpretation of the words but using white space between letters of a word or to create the visual effect of a table are failures. Remove the affected code if necessary and use CSS or tables to display the text. WCAG 2.1 \(Level A\) - 1.3.2

link without visual cue: 32

ALERT: An anchor tag was found with the underline removed using a text-decoration style. While some links may be visually evident from page design and context, such as navigational links, links within text are often visually understood only from their own display attributes. Ensure that all links are visually identifiable via some other means such as location in page, underlined, bolded, italicized, sufficient difference in lightness (minimum contrast of 3:1). WARNING: Image found inside an anchor tag without alternate text. When an image is used as the body of a link but does not include alternate text there is nothing for the screen reader to read. Images used inside a link should include alternate text clearly identifying the function of the image unless including the alternate text would create redundancy (e.g. when text is also included in an image caption or as text inside the body of a link).
